Perkins Sends Mediator To Halt C. I. O. Action In California

DOWNEY, Cal., Nov. 16—Federal government officials moved swiftly today to bring a speedy end to the C.I.O. union strike at the Vultee aircraft plant at Downey which is impeding production of $80,000,000 worth of warplanes for the United States and Great Britain.

Capt. Edward H. Fitzgerald, veteran labor conciliator, was hastily dispatched from San Francisco to the strike-bound plant by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins to aid Lyman Sleser, also a Labor Department conciliator, who had been working vainly since Wednesday to avert the strike.

Agents of the War Department and the National Defense Commission also were sent to Downey in a concerted effort to reopen the huge plant, fourth largest on the Pacific Coast.

Agents of all departments had one purpose—to bring the matter up for arbitration.

Long-threatened, the strike be-

Major Shakeup Looms For U. S. Labor Board

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—A major shakeup in the turbulent National Labor Relations Board started today after three key officials resigned in protest against President Roosevelt's action in naming a new member to the board.

The shakeup, which will assume proportions of a general housecleaning, began when the President failed to reappoint J. Warren Madden, chairman of the board, to another term. Instead, Mr. Roosevelt named Dr. Harry A. Millis, Chicago economist and professor, to the board and appointed Madden to the U. S. Court of Claims.

The nominations of both Millis and Madden to their new posts were sent to the senate yesterday. Millis was expected to be speedily confirmed, probably next week. But a fight loomed over putting Madden on the claims court, a job that will pay him $12,500 a year in contrast to the $10,000 he received on the labor board.

As soon as the nominations were made three NLRB key officials resigned. They are Nathan Witt, secretary of the board, Thomas Emerson, associate general counsel, and Alexander B. Hawes, chief administrative examiner.

Witt, Emerson and Hawes appeared merely to be beating the executioner. It had been a foregone conclusion that they would be forced to quit if Madden was not reappointed. All said in their letters of resignation that they were stepping out because the President had failed to reappoint Madden. Both Witt and Madden had been accused in testimony before a congressional investigating committee of being pro-CIO.

VON RIBBENTROP, ENVOY OF SPAIN MEET IN PARIS

BERLIN, Nov. 16 — Important conversations will take place shortly between German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop and Spanish Foreign Minister Ramon Serrano Suner, it was learned today.

Suner will confer with Ribbentrop either here or in Paris.

(Editor's Note: Suner left Madrid for Paris Thursday night.)

The conference will mark the redoubling of political activity designed to expedite the establishment of the axis "new order" in Europe.

The successful nature of the conversations with Soviet Premier and Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov has encouraged the Germans to press forward with plans for consolidating the "new order" on the continent.

It is expected that other adherents of the authoritarian camp will follow in Suner's footsteps to clarify the new continental situation before the eyes of the world.

Greek Troops Penetrate Further Into Albania In New Successes

ATHENS, Nov. 16—Heavy casualties were inflicted on Italian troops caught under heavy British bombing raids near Koritza in Albania, it was claimed today, while the Greek high command announced 700 more Fascist prisoners had been captured in sweeping Grecian advances.

An official RAF communique issued in Athens said an Italian motor column had been bombed and machine-gunned north of Koritza, Italy's chief Albanian military base, and added that explosives had demolished an Italian army headquarters and wrecked a bridge used to bring up Italian reinforcements.

"A large number of troops were caught by surprise and the casualties were almost certainly heavy," the British statement said.

The Grecian high command reported "great activity by infantry, artillery and aircraft" on the whole front with British and Greek planes continually strafing retreating Fascist forces. The Italians were reported facing isolation at both their flanks.

The British statement said that bombs destroyed many Italian military automobiles and trucks.

Five Planes Downed

Three Italian and two Greek planes were shot down in aerial combats, it was announced, while Italian bombers were said to have carried out "indiscriminate" bombings of towns and villages in the Greek interior, injuring some civilians, but missing military objectives.

Greek assault forces were reported with in a mile of Koritza, where Italy's major garrison was said to be threatened with total encirclement.

A similar fate menaced Italian forces in the Kalamas River district at the opposite end of the front, according to latest advices. Greek bayonet charges which

GERMAN FREIGHT CRAFT BURNING, TAMPICO CLAIMS

TAMPICO, Mexico, Nov. 16 — Fire was reported to have broken out today aboard one of four German freighters which sailed suddenly from Tampico Harbor last night, bound for a friendly European port.

Another of the German vessels broke down shortly after steaming out of the harbor into the Gulf of Mexico.

The German freighters, which departed hastily after spending 14 months in Tampico Harbor were the Idarwald, the Orinoco, the Rhein and the Phrygia.

It was reported they were seeking to make a dash across the Atlantic through the British blockade to Spain.

Which of the vessels caught fire was not immediately learned. There was no indication of what might have caused the blaze on the burning ship or the trouble encountered by the other.

The Idarwald sailed at 9:30 p.m., the Rhein at 10 p.m., the Orinoco at 11 p.m., and the Phrygia at 2 a.m.

As soon as the German ships weighed anchor a British vessel anchored in the port, the British freighter Olive Bank, began sending out wireless messages, it was reported. But information at Tampico was that there were no British war vessels in the immediate vicinity which might intercept the German ships.

TRUCK INJURES N. HOLLAND MAN; TRAVELER HURT

According to state highway patrolmen, the truck went out of control as it was going west, hit a pile of dirt, then struck Funk knocking him into the ditch, hit a power pole breaking it, crossed the road, hit a tree and finally came to a stop in the ditch. Funk was reported not seriously injured.

Highway patrolmen reported another accident, Friday, on Route 23, north of Chillicothe, when the car driven by Samuel J. Martin,

GOERING CRY FOR DIRECTS REVENGE ATTACK SOUNDED

Germans Planning Annihilation Of Isle Centers

VIOLENCE GROWS

Stations, Docks Of Major Cities Blasted

BERLIN, Nov. 16—Using new "annihilation tactics," Germany's air force henceforth intends to blast and level England's industrial and military keypoints step by step, authorities in Berlin declared today.

The prime objective of the German bombers, acting under orders of Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, will be complete paralysis of the British war machine, these quarters declared.

The midlands town of Coventry was "first on the list," it was stated in Berlin, and second was an unnamed provincial town in southern England.

"Dawn found this town a shambles," German quarters said.

(Editor's Note: The latest British Air Ministry communique described heavy night German air attacks on London, but stated that German air activity elsewhere was comparatively light.)

At the same time, German quarters added, the violence of the aerial drive against London was increased during the night and the British capital was rocked by several hundred tons of high explosives.

German bombers cruised over London in waves, they stated, while Coventry once again was blasted—"although on a somewhat lighter scale"—authorities claimed.

Several persons were killed, a hospital was hit and a number of "non-military buildings" were damaged during a British air attack on Hamburg last night, an official Berlin announcement said today.

Two British bombers were shot down northeast of the German port, the statement said.

An earlier announcement said German planes yesterday afternoon bombed railway stations and docks in London and also scored several bomb hits on a railway station and an airdrome at Maidstone. One British plane was said to have been shot down in an aerial combat.

(NBC in New York picked up a German radio broadcast stating British bombers again "attempted" to raid Berlin last night.

(This account said six RAF bombers were shot down immediately after crossing the English Channel and that only 12 British planes reached the Berlin area. Three of these were shot down on the outskirts of Berlin and three more in the city proper, according to the broadcast, which reported "insignificant fires" and "some damage to private houses.")

ESCAPED LIFER SHOT IGNORING OFFICER'S CALL

CINCINNATI, Nov. 16—Identified as an escaped life-terminer from the London prison farm, Frank Jackson, 45, of Louisville, Ky., was in a Cincinnati hospital under guard today with leg wound, suffered when he refused to heed a policeman's order to halt.

Jackson was shot by Patrolman Charles Ewick as he fled a Price Hill residence he had entered through a window. Ewick and Patrolman John Carroll had tracked Jackson through the snow for two hours before catching up with him. Police said Jackson admitted entering five homes.

Big Brother Policy For Uncle Sam?

Henry Ford Would Have Country Call Halt To Warfare

By James L. Kilgallen

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—Henry Ford visualizes the United States as the future "big brother" among nations of the world so that—"at the proper time"—it can call a halt on war.

He does not think this country will get into the war as a belligerent.

In an exclusive interview today, Mr. Ford attributed the cause of war to "pure ignorance" on the part of the people whose nations are involved in the gigantic conflict.

"If either Great Britain or Germany wins the war, there will be another war," Mr. Ford said.

"If neither side wins, and America is the 'big brother' and makes them quit this senseless fighting, that will put an end to war. Then, the people can go back to work the land of their countries and produce for their (Continued on Page Eight)

GRAND JURY MAY CONVENE DEC. 2

Jail Overcrowded, Judge Says; Date Is Only Tentative

Tentative date for recalling the Pickaway County September term grand jury has been set for December 2, Judge Meeker Terwilliger announced Saturday.

Due to an overcrowded jail and the large number of criminal cases transcribed from the Mayor's and Justice of Peace court, the date has been set as early as possible, the Judge said.

Twenty-three cases are scheduled to be heard before the jury.

'PERFECT WIFE' OF FILMS PLANS TO ASK DIVORCE

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 16 — Four years' married life was at an end today for the screen's "perfect wife" and Arthur Hornblow, Jr., when Actress Myrna Loy announced a divorce action will be filed against her film producer-husband.

"Inescapable complications" in their respective careers was the mutual reason given for the pending action. Miss Loy issued a statement from a resort in Palm Springs where she is recuperating from a recent illness. She said: "A separation between us is the only course and there is no hope for a reconciliation."

Hornblow, one of the film industry's top-notch producers, declared he faced the fact "with great sadness." He said Miss Loy would always be the "loveliest woman in the world."

Miss Loy and Hornblow were married in Ensenada, Mexico, in 1936.

British Folk Ask For Reprisals After Attack

LONDON SUFFERS

500 German Planes In All-Night Offensive

LONDON, Nov. 16—Cries for revenge rang out in Britain today as the nation counted 1,000 casualties in Coventry's still smoking ruins and surveyed the wreckage of a savage new attack on London, the heaviest the capital has endured in weeks.

Newspapers in London and all over the country demanded reprisals. The London Daily Herald trumpeted the key note: "The Nazis Must Pay."

New scars defaced wide areas of the capital as a result of the Nazi night assault, which followed up the Coventry attack with deadly ferocity.

Seven hospitals, three hotels, two convents, two motion picture theatres and one school were among the targets blasted by the German bombers.

Despite the extent of the attack, authorities asserted no vital services had been affected and little or no damage was inflicted on military objectives.

500 Planes Used

Competent quarters estimated that the Germans used no less than 500 planes in their renewed "blitzkrieg" against London.

Twenty-four hours after the black horror of the previous night's attack on Coventry broke over that midlands industrial city, fires still smouldered in the wrecked shopping center, where block after block was levelled by tons of Nazi bombs.

The mayor of Coventry declared there would be no general evacuation, despite the terrific devastation, although thousands of homeless residents were being moved to temporary residents in other towns.

"We shall go on," he declared. "I shall go on in this city even if there is no room to sleep."

Like Coventry, although in less concentrated degree, London this morning showed the grim results of the increasingly fierce Nazi raids.

In wide areas of the capital "clean-up" workers were removing tons of shattered glass from the streets while store-keepers boarded up newly blasted display windows and gathered up their (Continued on Page Eight)

County Cagers Open Schedules

Washington, Monroe, Ashville, Darby, Pickaway And Deercreek On Top In Initial Jousts Of Year

Pickaway County High School's basketball season went into full swing Friday evening with teams that are usually strong coming through again with victories. Outstanding strength was shown by Washington Township, Monroe Township and Ashville, with several other schools showing that they must be reckoned with before the season is ended.

The tall Washington boys, playing on the Circleville court, turned back the usually speedy Scioto team, 35-19, Rife, Washington center, dropping the ball through the hoop for 18 points on eight field shots and two from the charity line.

Leading Scorer

SCORING five touchdowns in his last game, Jackie Hunt, fullback of Marshall College, Huntington, W. Va., now leads the nation's collegiate football scorers with 114 points. Hunt has scored 19 touchdowns in eight games.

Texas Aggies Continue to be Pride of Southwestern Teams

HEADED by Jarrin' John Kimbrough, All-American fullback, the Texas Aggies go on their merry way, undefeated for the second year in a row. Coached by Homer Norton, the Texas A. & M. squad has taken all opponents in stride and include victories over the strong Southern Methodist and Baylor teams. Marsh Robnett is one of the Aggies' outstanding candidates for All-American honors this year.

FOES FOR BOWL GAMES STUDIED

Stanford, Texas A. & M. In Favored Positions For West Coast Joust

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—Of all the unbeaten top flight eleven performing on many football fronts today there are only three without aspirations for post-season bowl invitations. These are Minnesota, Cornell and Notre Dame. Hence, today's football schedule was of more than passing importance, considering that this is next to the last big week-end of the year.

All the planning and effort and money sunk in these eleven will have been wasted in some instances unless the ultimate survivors get their whacks at that big bundle offered with the blessings of Chambers of Commerce at various spots on New Year's Day. This leads us to believe in our own naive sort of way that football perhaps is a commercial proposition after all.

At any rate, here is approximately the way the competition will shape up in the various bowls, if everything runs to form in the next two weeks:

ROSE BOWL—Stanford and Texas A. & M.

SUGAR BOWL—Boston College and Tennessee.

COTTON BOWL—Rice and Georgetown.

ORANGE BOWL—Alabama and you name it.

SUN BOWL—You name it and you name it.

Cornell Sought

The Rose Bowl proposition seems to be cut and dried if Stanford can go ahead to the coast title. The Indians are unbeaten and untied so far with Oregon State coming up today and California on November 30. They want Cornell and have sent an emissary East to snare the Cornell powerhouse, but probably will fail.

Hence, the next best available attraction as of now must be Texas A. & M., one of the greatest teams in the nation for two years. The Aggies still must oppose Rice and Texas.

Boston College figured in the picture only in relation to outcome of its game with Georgetown today. Boston was favored, but Georgetown could earn the bid against Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl by winning. Tennessee is a certain bet for bowl competition because of a reasonably good team and a made-to-order schedule.

Even if Georgetown were to lose to Boston College the former still should rate recognition for the Cotton Bowl against Rice or whatever club is selected from the Southwest Conference. It may be Southern Methodist or Texas Christian.

Alabama threatens to clinch a spot in either the Orange or Sun Bowls and Duke likewise must have some hopes in that direction, although there is little chance of naming the opposition, or coming even close with a guess, right now.

The perfect setup of course would be for Notre Dame, Cornell and Minnesota to be available. Without them some of the Bowls will be doing just the best they can.

50,000 TO WATCH NEW YORK MAY NOTRE DAME AND BAR AL DAVIS IOWA IN JOUST FOR LIFETIME

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Nov. 16—Notre Dame's powerful football team went out for its seventh straight victory this afternoon against off-beaten Iowa, with some 50,000 fans sitting in on the proceedings at Memorial stadium.

There seemed little reason to believe Iowa could repeat its amazing upset of the Irish in 1939, when the Hawkeyes won, 7-6. This Iowa team had no Nile Kinnick, nor had it the flaming spirit which made it an almost unbeatable combination last fall.

Notre Dame, on the other hand, had every incentive to win. Most of the boys on this Irish team were around last year, and they remembered the bitter disappointment of that upset at Iowa City.

Moreover, Notre Dame entered the game with a record of never having beaten Iowa. True, the teams had met only twice before today, but Iowa accomplished both victories against potential champions, breaking a 20-game Notre Dame winning streak in 1921, and halting Notre Dame after six straight a year ago.

Seven Notre Dame first stringers are seniors, playing their last game today in Memorial Stadium. That meant much to such men as Capt. Milt Piepik, possibly the best fullback in the land; Bob Saggau, brilliant left halfback, and the others.

The New York boxing commissioners, all of whom witnessed the sordid affair, were unanimous in the opinion that Davis would be barred from New York rings for life; but official action will not be taken until the commission meets on Tuesday.

Commissioner Bill Brown summed up the thought of his colleagues on the matter by declaring "boxing doesn't need Davis."

"In my 50 years of boxing—in and out of the law—I've never seen anything so flagrant. It was the most cowardly exhibition that I ever witnessed."

The other members of the commission are General John J. Phelan, chairman, and Walker Wear.

After taking a terrific beating in the opening round, Davis, who previously lost only one fight in 43, rushed at Fritzie at the opening of the second round and clubbed him with a terrific left hook to the groin when the champion backed away in self-defense, Davis came in and repeated the low blow.

At this point, Referee Billy Cavanaugh stepped in and warned Davis, but the latter unmindful of the advice came back and six more blows in Zivic's groin before Cavanaugh halted the unfair battle.

By this time, the 17,101 fans in Madison Square Garden, who hadn't any great like for Davis because of some of his previous actions both in and out of the ring, were standing on their feet, roaring disapproval of the proceedings and tossing hats, magazines and peanuts into the ring.

Captain Dave, a three-year regular, has gained a great reputation as a place-kicker, having booted two out of three field goals attempted this year and converted seven of ten extra points. Wink, a junior, has scored three touchdowns this season and set up several others with his sensational pass snatching from an end position.

The Saturday games will also ring down the curtain on the schedules of Baldwin-Wallace, Wooster, Kent State, Oberlin, Defiance, DeSales, Mt. Union, Ohio Northern, Alfred Holbrook and Rio Grande.

There are five Ohio Conference games on tap. Wittenberg's Lutherans, almost a sure shot to cop the title, travels to Alliance to meet the hapless Mt. Union eleven. Other conference games bring together Baldwin-Wallace at Kent State; Wooster at Oberlin; Heidelberg at Ohio Northern and Denison at Muskingum.

Other games scheduled are: Bowling Green at Eastern State Teachers, Richmond, Ky.; Central Teachers at DeSales; Lawrence Tech at Defiance; Ohio University at Dayton; Toledo at Butler, Ind.; Youngstown at Ohio Wesleyan;

HARMON'S FINAL HOME SHOW WILL CROWD STADIUM

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 16—An invading army of grid fans, more than three times the 20,000 population of this college town, swarmed into Ann Arbor today for the University of Michigan-Northwestern game and the final appearance here of All-American Tom Harmon.

Battered in previous contests with Minnesota, which probably will survive as the mightiest in the nation because of the point-after-touchdown-making technique of little Joe Mernik, the Wolverines and the Wildcats will thrust eleven of almost equal strength into the fray.

When the university ticket office closed its windows last night, 72,000 pastebards had been sold, and, according to Harry Tillotson, office manager, the remainder will go today unless inclement weather prevails.

INDIANS TO FACE TEST WITHOUT STAR FULLBACK

STANFORD STADIUM, Cal., Nov. 16—Within coasting distance of the Rose Bowl, Stanford's harassed Indians had a tough nut to crack today as, minus their ace fullback, Norman Standee, they faced the hard socking Oregon State Beavers.

The Indians, wracked with injuries and tired from seven "breathless" weeks of football during which they have turned back every foe, faced off for today's contest with admitted misgivings.

There are 19 cities windier than Chicago, the "Windy City." That's nothing, says Zadok Dumbkopf—there are thousands newer than New York.

25,000 TO SEE OHIO AND ILLINI

Schmidt Hopes Buckeyes Will Show Form With Michigan Tilt Near

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 16—Ohio State University's once-feared Buckeyes were a heavy favorite to defeat Illinois today in a Big Ten contest before 25,000 in Memorial Stadium.

Neither team has set the world on fire this season and the game will have little or no bearing on the western conference title race. Ohio has won two and lost two in league play while Illinois has lost three in a row and has no victories.

The annual "Tilbuck" ceremony will be staged by an honorary society from each University. "Tilbuck" wooden turtle is the prize which goes to the winning team and is now in possession of the Buckeyes who won the 1939 tilt.

Coach Francis Schmidt, Ohio State mentor, was in hopes that his Scarlet and Gray eleven could get to clicking just once before the classic struggle with Michigan's Wolverines a week hence in Ohio Stadium. The Bucks were at top physical condition for the first time this season.

ASHVILLE By S. D. Fridley Ashville, Phone 79

Dad Groce and daughter Virginia were down from the Capital City at the home of their cousin, Ralph Stevenson, near town, to try their luck on the first day of the hunting season. Miss Groce is quite handy with a rifle, but seemed to be out of luck and had to return home with no game to her credit. Her father fared better and bagged two pheasants. Among the others afield from here were Rev. Woodworth with a rabbit and two pheasants to his credit; Rev. Fudge with two bunnies and two birds; Ed. Schlegel a pheasant and three rabbits.

Will Creager came in contact with the business end of a cross ram at the stock sales barn up on 23 a couple of days ago and came out second best being considerably injured.

George Peters has received notice to appear as a juror in Mel Underwood's federal court at Columbus Monday.

Both the village council and the Ashville-Harrison school board will be in session Monday evening.

Had among our visitors Friday, John Tinkey of Tarleton. Mr. Tinkey has been deputy state sealer of weights and measures for several years, but now retired.

Jesus' Concern for Life and Health

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Luke 7.

In Capernaum a certain centurion sent Jewish elders to Jesus to ask His help for a beloved servant who was ill. The centurion had built the Jews a synagogue, said the elders, and loved them, so Jesus went with them.

When Jesus was near the centurion's house the centurion sent word that he was not worthy that Jesus should enter, but if He would say the word, his servant would be healed. His faith made the servant well.

A Pharisee asked Jesus to dine with him, and when they were eating, a sinful woman came to Him. Weeping, she washed His feet with her tears, dried them with her hair, and anointed them with precious ointment.

The Pharisee was shocked, but Jesus rebuked him saying that he had not performed the rites of welcome, but the woman had. To the woman He said: "Thy faith hath saved thee; go in peace." (GOLDEN TEXT—John 10:10)

BALKAN OPTIMISM

To most Americans the Balkans are just a welter of nations and politics almost impossible for simple-minded people like us to understand. But what they are doing and thinking in that "cockpit of Europe" is always interesting if you can get at it. They are a Little Europe in themselves.

Well, an eye-opening news story about that region came from Athens the other day. It was written by Leland Stowe of the Chicago Daily News. He is the correspondent who first gave the world the incredible facts about the Nazi conquest of Norway, and his word probably goes as far as anybody's.

The burden of his present story is that the Balkan nations have thumbs down on Hitler and are betting on Britain to win the war. This conclusion is the result of six weeks spent in traveling through all the Balkan countries and talking to all kinds of people.

He supposed they would be afraid to speak out, but they talked to him freely and frankly. And he could not find a single responsible government official or politician, he says, in four Balkan capitals, who would express faith in Nazi victory. He was amazed to find how many people, in public life and private life, declared calmly that they had no doubt about Britain and the Allied cause triumphing over Germany and Italy.

HARMLESS STUFFING

THE U. S. Public Health Service has never issued a special bulletin about the bad effects of over-eating at the Thanksgiving Feast. It seems that the menace of that day hasn't been so great as many have thought. Its aftermath does not call for statistics like those following the Fourth of July or Labor Day. Fire-crackers and crowded highways are more deadly than turkey with trimmings.

This is reassuring to all who look forward with confidence to the goodly feast. There may be reasons for it. For one thing the year's heartiest meal is eaten in an atmosphere of good nature and leisure. These aid digestion. So does the period of quiet that follows, with its nap or somnolent conversation.

It may be that the Pilgrim Fathers suffered more indigestion than we do. They had to worry about the Indians. Their feast, too, seems to have been even bigger than ours, including ducks and other wildfowl along with the turkey, and adding clams and oysters and mussels and venison. Perhaps everybody didn't eat everything, but the opportunity was there.

The emblem of these times is the ugliest of all disguises, the gas mask.

It's time for everybody to forget about the election campaign and go ahead.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up and about the village to find the great army of hunters awaiting the 12 o'clock "go" signal. And at noon the roar of guns could be heard even within the village. Fair luck on rabbits and better than fair shooting at birds. The scrivener remained behind in the home guard, not being a hunter.

Shuddered at tales of that German raid on Coventry. What a terrible thing that was and what epitaph the event placed on modern warfare. More than a thousand persons killed, that means most of them old men, women, children. What kind of warfare is that, anyway?

Seems as though Mussolini is meeting up with the fate that invariably follows a braggart. And to think that only a few weeks ago he was pitching threats at Uncle Sam. Back in the first World War the Italians demonstrated beyond dispute that they cannot fight, but some thought that they might be different under a dictator. They are not. They still dislike the odor of burned powder, glinting bayonets, the roar of shells. They still know how to run. Well, that is not such a bad idea under certain conditions. I respect their dislike for war because I also dislike it, but I dislike their war mongering attitude.

Much of the back room force sought to go a hunting, some of them being able to get away at noon and others hurrying through work to get off at 3:30. That outfit is quite like Il Duce, talking big but performing small. Anyway, they had an afternoon of fine exercise in the open, and that is something.

Real Winter at last with ice and snow and frozen radiators. And merchants getting ready for the Christmas business that is expected to get under way right after Thanksgiving. A lot of fine merchandise in stock and at prices that you can safely bet are a few months from now. All merchants tell me of mounting wholesale prices on all commodities. And don't think that is just talk, either. Remember back in 1920 when you paid 30 cents or more for a pound of sugar, when men's suits cost twice what they do today, when furniture pieces were up in the Alps? That's all coming back, and don't think otherwise. Those who have buying to do should be doing it soon unless they are willing to pay a heavy premium for their delay.

Frank Howard delivered another of his fine chickens that will grace the board Sunday noon. That was mighty nice of him. And I hold hopes of being able to win one of the big turkeys the American Legion is putting up for prizes in the rifle shoot Sunday afternoon at Memorial Hall.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

BRASS RING TO LYNDON JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—To the boys on the Democratic side of the House of Representatives, many of them still nervously mopping their brows over narrow escapes, the hero of the hair-raising campaign was no big-shot party figure.

The big names got all the publicity, but in the House all the praise is for a youngster whose name was scarcely mentioned. But he left his mark on the battle—as GOP campaign managers will ruefully attest.

Their Nemesis and the Democrats' unknown hero was Representative Lyndon Baines Johnson, a rangy, 32-year-old, black-haired, handsome Texan, who has been in Congress only three years but who has political magic at his finger tips, and a way with him that is irresistible in action.

How Johnson took over the Democratic congressional campaign, when it looked as if the party was sure to lose the House, and without fanfare turned a rout into a cocky triumph, is one of the untold epics of the election.

Three weeks before November 5 you could have cut the gloom around Democratic congressional headquarters with a knife. The campaign committee, headed by Representative Pat Drewry, a charming and dawning Virginian, had collapsed like the minister's one-hoss shay. Activity had so bogged down that hard-pressed candidates had quit even asking for help. It was just a waste of time.

For the Republicans it looked like a lead-pipe cinch at long last to regain control of the House. They needed only 48 new seats, and strongly supported GOP candidates were storming the ramparts against frantic Democratic incumbents in more than 100 districts.

ENTER JOHNSON

This was the situation when Speaker Sam Rayburn and Floor Leader John McCormack went to the President and told him something had to be done and done quick. He said, "What do you suggest?"

"Put Lyndon Johnson in charge and give him a free hand."

"Sold," replied Roosevelt. "That was my idea, too. That boy has got what's needed. Tell Lyndon to see me tomorrow."

Johnson saw the President at breakfast the next morning. Three hours later he had an office (tucked away in a downtown business building) and a staff rolling in high gear. And it continued rolling fifteen and eighteen hours a day for the remainder of the campaign.

The response to Johnson's dynamic drive was electric. Imperiled candidates, who had given up hope of any outside help, fell on his neck with piteous cries. Overnight SOS calls began to pour in from coast to coast. None went unheeded.

In all, Johnson aided more than 150 Democratic congressional candidates. The results speak for themselves. Instead of capturing the House, the Republicans lost

It would help all round if a lot of young Americans, instead of asking what their country will do for them, would ask themselves what they will do for their country.

DIET AND HEALTH

Our New Army and Its Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

As an old soldier, and in a position where I heard, during the last war, complaints, entreaties and advice from the families of the enlisted men who fell sick, I wonder just how much trouble is being taken to see that the personnel in charge of medical affairs in our new army is being instructed to cooperate with the boys' families. I give a case in point, to make it clear. A young man in 1917 gave up a good position and was drafted. He didn't know anything about army regulations, and he was sent to a northern camp where it got cold. He had used up all his requisitions for underwear and he didn't have any heavy underwear. When his wife came to visit him, he asked her to go downtown and buy with his own money some heavy underwear because he was cold. But the sergeant told her the heavy underwear wasn't army regulations and he couldn't get them, not even war underwear. So this is a fact—the young man got pneumonia and died. I don't say that the lack of heavy underwear gave him pneumonia, but the wife does. And you'll never get her to believe otherwise. And the things she says about that sergeant want to go somewhere and have a good cry.

The Family Doctor
Sounds like a little thing, and it was, and it could all have been avoided. These boys in camp this winter are going to get sick and the parents and wives and sweethearts, bless them, are going to come down to see them and sometimes they'll want their own home doctors to see them. And bless them for that, too. And let me say to every father and mother and wife, that there's no reason on earth why they shouldn't have their home doctors. I was in charge of a medical service in a large hospital and there never was a time when such a request was made that it wasn't willingly and gladly approved. And sometimes I even suggested it myself. The medical service is going to be good, don't worry about that, but if you feel that way about it, say so.

Partitions as Cold Preventives
To prevent the colds and pneumonias as much as possible, I hope the construction engineers are making the cantonments so that there will be a partition between every bed. I don't know whether they are or not, but that was the one great sanitary lesson it seems to me we learned from the last war. With men coming from all parts of the country and carrying their own particular germs, a cough starting in an open barracks can run like wildfire, unless some precautions are taken.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
D. C.—"We have been sweetening orange juice for our child, 2½ years old, by adding about ½ teaspoon of sugar to a four ounce glass of fresh juice. We have just been told, by a non-medical person, that sugar reacts with orange juice to form an acid. Is this so?"

Answer—It is not true. Sugar has no chemical effect on orange juice whatever. Natural orange juice contains a few mild vegetable acids, but these are immediately converted in the stomach and do not cause any harm. The sugar simply adds to the nutritive value of the orange juice.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendingen has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendingen, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining Weight," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

CONTRACT BRIDGE

IT IS NOT GUESSING

THOUGHTLESS players guess frequently as to the way a particular suit should be played. There are times when even the best must do this, but they do not occur often. Nearly always there is some indication regarding the likely location of missing cards. When there are none, there still is the good old standby, probability, to serve as a guide. When there are no counter indications, it is better to have probability on your side, rather than against you.

He reckoned that, with West having only a four-card spade suit, he must have quite a bit of honor strength, and hence was pretty likely to hold the heart A. In fact, it might be a singleton, with East holding three headed by the J. So, to protect himself against this, he promptly led a small heart to the third trick and played the 10. When the J won this, he was fit to be tied. The heart A, of course, furnished the setting trick a bit later.

North gave South a very simple lesson. If he was going to play West for a singleton A and East for three headed by the J, he should have played the Q from dummy first. That would have given him protection against the situation that did exist and also against the one his hunch made him fear.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

"WHAT'S THE matter with Vance?" Kit asked Widmer when they had found a table by themselves in the store.

"I dunno. But I'm afraid it is something serious. That's why I ran after you. I figured that you're a good friend of his and you might know. He's a good friend of mine, too. I thought maybe if he was in a jam—"

"Where is he?" she asked. A kind of sick premonition attacked her.

"That's what I don't know. It's kind of queer it seems to me. He's done something that he never did before. He was supposed to be M. C. at the opening of our new station last night and he didn't show up. Craley was there and he pinch hit for him. Not a word from him. He has a show to do Sunday and the Braddock fight Tuesday. I went up to his place today and his servant said he hadn't heard from him since he left Monday."

Kit said, "Let me think a minute."

"I don't know as I ought to tell you this, Miss O'Reilly, but Gregory told him if he ever . . . Well, if he ever blew again, he'd keep him off the air, and with the big fight coming and all, I thought—"

"But Gregory is in London. Maybe he won't know about it."

"Nobody here would squeal on Healey. He's too regular. But suppose he ain't here by Tuesday and Gregory catches the light on short wave?"

"Kit picked up her bag. She said, 'Thanks, Mr. Widmer, for telling me. Don't let anyone else know, and I promise you that I'll have Vance here by Sunday.'"

Kit's gray-and-white striped luggage was in her path when she opened the door of her apartment. Her topcoat and light evening wrap were folded over a chair in the foyer.

Fran's voice greeted her quietly. "You'll have to hurry, Kit. Jerry will be here very soon. I've packed for you, drawn your bath and laid out your clothes for dinner."

Kit came into the room. "I'm not going with Jerry."

She threw her hat and bag on a chair and hurried to her writing desk, where she flung open the drawers, scattering the contents wildly.

"Looking for something?"

"No, darling. I'm practicing a new act. Didn't we have a New Haven timetable around here some place?"

"I thought you were going on Foster's boat. And, anyway, it's New London, not New Haven, unless they're having the races there this year."

"I'm not going to the races."

"Oh, yes you are!" Fran said calmly.

Kit sighed with exasperation and turned around to her. "You hear me, Fran. I've got to go to New Haven. You tell Jerry . . . tell him anything you can think of. And now ring up Grand Central and find out what time the next train leaves."

The other girl didn't move. "Mind if I ask why the change of plans?"

Kit said, "It's Vance."

"What about Vance?"

"He's disappeared. I'm going to try to find him."

"What makes you think you'll find him in New Haven? School's been out six weeks Wednesday."

"Yes, I know. But he hasn't been seen around here since Sunday. Larry Widmer stopped me when I was leaving a few minutes ago and said Vance blew a show last night. He's been to all Vance's haunts and can't find him."

"And so our little girl scout thinks she'll find him in New Haven?"

"I might," Kit said shortly.

"That's where he went, isn't it? Well, that's probably where he's still celebrating. Vance isn't like—well, Vance simply can't celebrate. He doesn't know how. He must still be up there somewhere with some cronies he's picked up."

"Suppose he is. What would you do about it?"

"I don't know!" Kit's voice went up hysterically. "But I'd find him somewhere. In some place like Luigi's or—"

"The trains run on the hour, so cool off. Let's talk this over."

"I don't want to talk. I want to DO something."

"Shhhh! Not so loud! Has anybody appointed you to be Vance's guardian angel?"

Kit shook her head slowly. "No, it's strictly unofficial. Maybe it's a habit, but I don't know how to break it."

Fran drew her down to a place beside her on the lounge and spoke softly. "Kit, honey, suppose you think like a grown-up for a change. Suppose we do a little talking. We're doing so much foolish doing."

Kit shook Fran's hand off impatiently. "We're just wasting time. You don't understand, Fran. Vance is in trouble."

"And YOU are going to be in trouble, Miss O'Reilly. You've got a date with Jerry and it's just as important for you to keep your date as it is for Vance to keep his."

"A date to go to the crew races. How can you prattle about social affairs when a man's career is at stake?"

"Your own career may be at stake. Don't be a fool, Kit. Look at things the way they really are. Don't try to evade all the issues. You know darn well that you owe a lot to Jerry Sembler."

Kit bit her lips to keep from saying angry things.

"It would be rude, to say the least, for you to hang Jerry up without a decent explanation. And could you make one?"

Kit drew herself up. "I've never been intentionally rude to anyone and—"

"Okay! Let's keep the record clean. And consider my last question. Could you tell Jerry that you had rushed off to find Vance?"

"No—no."

"It's bad enough to run after one man and leave the other man holding the bag when the other man is just another beau. But when the other man happens to be the guy who holds your career in the palm of his hand—"

Fran shrugged her shoulders expressively.

Kit said coldly, "Do you mean to insinuate that I am nice to Jerry because he can help me professionally?"

"I wouldn't insinuate for the devil himself. I'm saying plain words that make sense—I hope. What I'm trying to say is that Jerry likes you and Jerry is a lot more important to you than you know BECAUSE HE LIKES YOU! It's as plain as the nose on your face that Jerry has done things for personal reasons."

"Fran!" Kit's face was a study in shocked surprise.

"Oh, for Pete's sake, Kit, don't give me that. You've been around enough to know that when a man likes a girl he can do a lot for her. And why shouldn't he? Why shouldn't Jerry? You're not married. He likes you. He does things for you that he probably wouldn't if—"

"Oh, Fran, you've got the wrong picture. Professionally and socially we are together most of the time, but one hasn't anything to do with the other. And Jerry is a nice, sweet person who asks for nothing."

"Well, then play your cards the right way. Be as nice to him. Be courteous and considerate—to-night. If you walk out on him now, he might be hurt. And when a man's hurt, he doesn't have a good cry and come back the next day for more the way a girl does."

Kit listened silently.

Fran went on:

"When he gets through being hurt, he gets to being mad. After that he cools off to the freezing point and discovers there isn't much fun in doing favors for the gal who made him mad. So, missy, off to your bath and I'll entertain him with songs, dances and witty sayings until you're dressed."

Kit repeated quietly, "I'm going to New Haven."

Today's Horoscope

Exceptional good fortune will come the way of those who are celebrating birthdays today. They will gain promotion and will benefit in various ways—in some cases, possibly, by speculation or a legacy. Shrewd, resourceful and ingenious will the child be who is born on this date. He or she will, however, be somewhat changeable, self-willed and liable to extremes of optimism or pessimism.

Hints on Etiquette

A man who signs himself "John Smith, Jr.," should be addressed as "Mr. John Smith, Jr.," just as if there were no Jr. on the end of his name.

Wednesday seniors have played three games and won two.

LITERARY CLUB HOLDS CONTEST

Mary Ruth Owens and Lloyd Jones conducted a "What's My Name?" game at the E. M. S. meeting held Wednesday evening in the high school social room. The names used represented literary figures of all ages and countries. A prize was given to the winning Red team. Leland Siegwald, president, presided during the business session.

Present project of this club is the writing of editorials. Each member must hand at least one editorial to Mary Ruth Owens, and from these will be chosen the best, which will be published in the Red and Black on November 23. The club is divided into two teams, the Red and the Black, and one team will hand in editorials one month and the other, the next.

At the close of the meeting it was decided that the next meeting will be held on November 27.

ARMISTICE PROGRAM
Circleville public school students, seven to twelve, attended an unusual Armistice Day program, Monday morning at 11:00.

Principal J. Wray Henry secured a radio by which the pupils heard President Franklin D. Roosevelt's speech from Arlington Cemetery, Washington, D. C.

STOOGES PLANS DINNER
As has been the custom in preceding years, the Stooges Club will hold a banquet. It was decided at the meeting last Monday that this affair would take place in March, but as yet no definite plans have been completed. This club is also debating the advisability of equipping the basketball team with new "socks."

"MERRY CHRISTMAS!"
Amid cries of "Merry Christmas" and "Happy New Year," scholars of C. H. S. "plowed" to school Friday. The unusual change in weather surprised the pupils, especially when someone's snowball hit a "bulls-eye."

Fairly clean things never should be washed at the same time as very soiled articles. Nor should soda be used after they become quite soiled and break down. Thorough rinsing helps keep washing white, but there is no reason for excessive rinsing unless you have made the mistake of putting some really dirty articles in with some a great deal less soiled.

with baking powder, soda, salt and spices. Cream fat, add sugar gradually, blending it in. Add egg and beat until mixture is light and fluffy. Add molasses. Blend it in well. Stir in dry ingredients alternately with sour milk. Turn into greased pan and bake in a moderate oven, 350° F., 50 to 60 minutes.

After 30 minutes baking distribute evenly over the top a mixture made by blending together 1/2 cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg, 1/2 cup nut meats, 4 tablespoons flour and 4 tablespoons melted butter. Continue baking. Delicious served warm.

1940-1941 Cage Season Announced

RESPECT TO THE FLAG PRACTICE BEGINS IN PREPARATION FOR B. B. SEASON

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

Courtesy of Scholastic, The American High School Weekly.

There are rules of etiquette with regard to the flag and most of us err in compliance with these rules. We all know that the flag is not to be used as personal adornment and yet daily, we see it used in ways that are a desecration—on hats and caps thrown carelessly anywhere; on handkerchiefs and other wearing apparel.

Our flag should be used only in places of honor; it is something we should respect and not use so freely that it becomes commonplace.

When we see a parade with the flag at the head of it we should stand at attention, while with men and boys it's "Hats Off". This is rule one in flag etiquette. How it is abused!

Our colors red, white and blue stand for bravery, sacrifice and purity and our national feeling should be to back up the colors in every way possible.

In our respect for law and order, whether at home or abroad, we should show the proper regard for our colors and for our flag.

To all the world today our flag stands for civil and religious liberty, the right of a free people to self-government, and family privacy. Let our land be—"A land of the free and a home of the brave"—and so respect our flag that to all nations it shall be a flag of liberty. Use it not for a table scarf, a head covering or in any manner of desecration but regard it as a symbol for which each one would be willing to sacrifice all to protect and cherish it.

With the help of Jane Colville and Norman Anderson, Mr. Webbe demonstrated correct and incorrect ways of handling firearms during the hunting season.

During the program, Mr. Webbe quizzed the audience in the hunting laws of the state of Ohio.

During his talk before the high school, Mr. Webbe advocated the formation of a Conservation club in C. H. S. This club would meet monthly under his direction and the activities carried on would be in connection with conservation work.

This program will be sponsored by the Pickaway County Farmer and Sportsmen's Club, the Ohio Division of Conservation and Natural Resources.

Purpose of this program is to demonstrate the value of conservation work among young people with respect to the development of a better habitat for wildlife, an increased interest in all phases of conservation work and in general a desire for outdoor recreation.

Mr. Webbe mentioned that there are various clubs already organized in the county schools and it is hoped that there may be one organized in Circleville high school.

PARTY PLANNED BY GIRLS' CLUB

Senior Girl Reserves of Circleville high school are planning to honor the Junior Girl Reserves at a party. Various committees for this affair have not as yet been arranged.

President Helen Beck asked all girls who wished to buy pins to order them as soon as possible.

After the business meeting, Margaret Adkins presented an Armistice Day program. Dorothy Glenn opened the program with an accordion solo, "God Bless America." Margaret then gave a brief resume of the first world war and several reasons for the present war.

Beginning the second program the entire club sang Thanksgiving songs. Mary Ruth Owens then read a story, "Squibbles' Thanksgiving Turkey," and expressed her views on the Thanksgiving spirit.

TEACHER SUBSTITUTES
Miss Reba Lee substituted for Miss Margaret Mattinson Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday. Miss Mattinson returned to her classes Thursday after an attack of bronchitis.

Next Monday, after a week's rest following the football season, Circleville High School athletes will begin the cage season.

Four varsity players graduated last year leaving only three lettermen to return to the squad. They are James Callahan, Clark Martin and Joseph Staley.

Not many returning this year have had varsity experience and Coach Black is expecting a strenuous training period.

This year the cagers have the "toughest" schedule in a number of seasons. They will compete with the following teams:

Tuesday, December 3, Washington Township, home.
Friday, December 6, Greenfield, away.
Friday, December 13, Chillicothe, away.

MUSIC DIRECTOR CHOOSES MIXED CLUB MEMBERS

Tuesday, Mrs. Grace Kiger, director of music, announced her selections for the Mixed Glee Club. She stated they were chosen for their ability to sing, to blend their voices and to read music at sight.

Those who comprise the group are Margaret Adkins, Marilyn Campbell, Barbara Caskey, Mary Crittes, Rose Ann Griner, Carolyn Herrmann, Geraldine Jackson, Mary Kathryn Pile, Catherine Ramsey, Mary Adele Snider (soprano), Ruth Blum, Joan Downing, Florence Dresbach, Marvin Hennes, Patty Owens and Iona Quinell (altos). Pupils who will sing tenor are: Blenn Cook, Clifford Kerns, Walter Leist, and Leland Siegwald. Bass parts will be sung by Glenn Barnhart, William Burget, Paul Jackson, Charles Mumaw and Paul Turner.

They are working on a group of numbers which will be given at the annual Christmas vesper service.

This is the only select musical group in the high school, all others being voluntary.

CLUB MEMBERS PLAN BAKE SALE

Junior Girl Reserves discussed several plans for future activities at their regular meeting, Thursday, November 14.

November 30 is the date of the club's first bake sale which is to be held at a downtown business organization. Doris Hendricks, publicity chairman, urged all the girls to advertise this project.

A second plan is that of the "fine" problem. She club has debated upon this subject for some time. President Florence Dresbach appointed Ann Hott, chairman, Patty Owens and Gloria Dean to investigate the system of fines in various clubs of the high school.

Betty Norris took charge of a Thanksgiving program.

DEBATERS PRACTICE

This week C. H. S. debaters have been holding daily practice debates. There debates are in preparation for the group participation in tournament and league activity. First actual debating for the squad will be a tournament at Columbus East high school, November 30.

Washington Merry-Go Round

six seats, and the Democrats emerged stronger than ever.

BORN POLITICIAN

Lyndon Johnson is a born politician. His father was a member of the Texas Legislature for many years and Lyndon plunged up to his neck in politics while still in college, putting on a whirlwind campaign for a State Senate candidate.

But Johnson didn't come up the easy way. He worked for his tuition through San Marcos Teachers College as a day laborer on highway projects, later taught public speaking in Houston schools.

There he caught the eye of Representative Dick Kleberg, one of the owners of the famed King ranch, largest in the world, who brought him to Washington as his secretary in 1932. Several years later, when the National Youth Administration was created, Johnson, who had attracted the attention of leading New Dealers, was appointed NYA Director for Texas.

He held this job until 1937, when the veteran Representative James Buchanan died and Johnson entered the lists with eight others for the seat. He won hands down in the first run-off.

ROOSEVELT FAVORITE

Johnson made no speeches in his first two years in the House, but he made himself felt where it really counted.

For his district he wangled the remarkable total of $71,766,561 in federal loans and projects. Included were three low-rent housing projects, two rural electrification projects (one of them, at Federal Falls, the largest in the country), and number of PWA and WPA undertakings. When there is anything like that around, Johnson is right there getting a big slice for his Tenth Texas District.

Among the House leaders, Johnson quickly became known as a staunch New Dealer who at the same time remained on cordial personal terms with the anti's. He is trusted and liked by the Garners and is also a favorite of the President.

Roosevelt has a fatherly affection for young Johnson, frequently consults him on political affairs, and is quietly grooming him for a high party post.

The President is fond of relating a story of Johnson's political wizardry; how as an unknown newcomer he blitzkrieged the "Little Congress" and got him elected "Speaker" of this organization of House secretaries and clerks.

"DON'T BET AGAINST HIM"

It is a "Little Congress" tradition that its "Speaker" is chosen by seniority. It was unheard of to elect a newcomer—that is, it was until Johnson hit town as Kleberg's secretary. At the first "Congress" meeting he attended, he announced he would be a candidate in the election the following week.

The "machine" snickered, but on the night of the election they changed their tune. The biggest attendance in history showed up. A mob of strange young people packed the corridor outside the House caucus room. At a signal from Johnson they lined up, their credentials and voted. The unknown newcomer from Texas was elected "Speaker" by two to one.

"Say, who is that guy?" gasped one of the defeated candidates. "He comes to one meeting and takes over the place at the next!"

"That's Lyndon Johnson," proudly volunteered one of his supporters. "If he tells you he can be elected President of the United States—don't bet against him."

NOTE—A teetotaler, young Johnson has two "voices." He smokes cigarettes incessantly and will eat red hot Mexican chili, mixed with scrambled eggs, at any hour of the day or night.

Hamburg must look like a Hamburger after all those British bombings.

Here's Official

Number List For Draft

Editor's Note: The Herald publishes each day a number of names, Serial and Order Numbers of Pickaway Counties who registered under the Selective Service Act. This list is the official one as announced by the Draft Board. In the publication will be the name, serial and order number of each man who registered. In the list below the first number listed is the Serial Number; the second is the Order Number. For instance, James J. Ryan registered. After the registration was completed the local Draft Board shuffled the names and conducted its draw. Ryan was given No. 504 Serial Number. Later the federal government conducted its lottery in Washington and Ryan's No. 504 was the 2168th Pickaway County number drawn from the glass bowl. So he will be the 2168th in the county to receive his questionnaire. The answers on which will decide whether he will be ordered into service for a year. In each instance below, the first number is the Serial Number and the second one is the Order Number, the order in which the registrant will be asked to fill his questionnaire.

FIRST DAY OF HUNTING SEASON FATAL TO TWO NIMRODS IN OHIO

Two men were killed, two others died of heart attacks and several others were wounded as the 1940 hunting season opened in Ohio, a survey revealed today.

Those fatally wounded included Sherman E. Wardell, 30-year-old

WILMINGTON, Nov. 16—Clarence Flint, Wilmington, reported Friday that he killed two cock pheasants with one shot just after he had stepped from his doorway into a field. He maintains that within fifteen minutes he had bagged two rabbits also, all without going out of sight of his home.

Canton bus driver, who was shot in the abdomen as a companion's gun was accidentally discharged. They were hunting near Alliance.

Killed when his loaded gun accidentally went off as he leaned it against a house near Ottawa was Malcolm O. Fields, 49, of Indianapolis.

Sam Lazzara, 60, of Sandusky, and F. W. Stuve, 65, of Findlay, died of heart attacks while hunting.

Included in those injured were William Huber, 17, of Columbus, shot in the leg with a shotgun blast, and L. M. Perkins, of Cleveland, also wounded in the leg.

The only hunting accident reported in Pickaway County was that of Orville Coleman of Dayton who was wounded in the shin by shot from a friend's gun. The injury was a minor one, Dr. D. V. Courtright, who treated him, said. The accident happened early Saturday.

Opening day brought five arrests for game law violations in Pickaway County. Conservation Officer C. E. Webb reported as clear sides promised better hunting weather.

Frank Boyssel, Jackson Township, and his son Robert, were arrested for hunting without licenses. Each was fined $25 and costs before William Cady.

Three were arrested for not exhibiting their license numbers on their backs. All were fined $25 and costs, with $15 suspended. They were Lewis Lugenbeel, Sciotoville, Francis Barnett, Commercial Point, and Charles McLaughlin, Darbyville. All those arrested paid their fines and were released.

Fewer hunters were seen in the county than was expected. Officer Webb reported, weather conditions keeping hunters out of the field. Few hunters stopped by conservation officers had their bag limits in either pheasants or rabbits, although Officer Webb said he believed a substantial amount of game was killed in the county.

The most unusual hunting incident in Pickaway County was put into the records by Edward Amey, South Court Street, who bagged a cock pheasant with a bow and arrow. Amey went into the field armed only with his bow and arrow, and came home with a bird.

The pheasant was killed when Amey hit another bird, but didn't kill it.

TWO MORE HELD ON COMPLAINTS IN GIRL CASE

Two more persons were in jail Saturday after sheriff's officers continued their investigation concerning the disappearance of Miss Bernice Whitson, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whitson, East Main Street.

Vesper M. Large, 23, and Miss Ethel Queen, 26, both of near Clarksburg, were committed to County Jail, Friday, in default of payment of $200 bond each following their hearing before Probate Judge Lemuel Weldon.

Charges of "contributing to the delinquency of Bernice Whitson" were filed against Large and Miss Queen by Miss Whitson's parents. Miss Whitson, who had been missing from her home since last Saturday night, was found Monday staying with friends in Commercial Point. Following her recovery, her parents filed statutory charges against Clarence Richard Conrad, Circleville RFD. Conrad was bound over the grand jury on

STATIC IN AIR MAY BE ENDED

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—Radio experts and manufacturers are predicting that frequency modulation, a new type of radio broadcasting which does away with static and increases the range of tone of radio sets, will be in popular use before the end of the year.

Although FM high fidelity broadcasts for the past two years have been only experimental, several FM stations are now preparing to go on the air commercially by January 1.

Already there are twenty-five experimental stations licensed in this country—five of them in the New York area alone. The Federal Communications Commission possesses thirty-nine applications for FM commercial licenses, many of which are expected to be granted by the first of the year.

Two Stations For New York
Among the proposed stations there is a 50,000 watt station in New York to be operated by the National Broadcasting Company and a similar station to be operated by the Mutual Broadcasting Company. Both of these stations will be capable of reaching some 15,000,000 listeners.

The development of FM networks is expected in a few years. The new system of broadcasting, invented by Maj. Edwin Armstrong, has many advantages over the present type of broadcasting. FM stations, however, have only a range of 100 to 125 miles, but the stations may be hooked up in a network to cover the country.

This type of broadcasting has a fuller range of tone presents a reception which is unaffected by noises of an electrical nature, such as motors, lightning, oil burners and static and FM stations in many parts of the country may utilize the same broadcasting channels without interfering with neighboring stations. Thus this type of broadcasting makes room for hundreds of new radio stations.

GERMANS TAKING OVER HOMES OF OUSTED FRENCH

VICHY, Nov. 16—Indignation was growing here today over the alleged harsh manner in which Germany forcibly expelled the French inhabitants of Lorraine.

Marshal Henri Philippe Petain was said to be deeply moved in additional reports of the harsh treatment meted out to the French people of Lorraine.

One report received here said the bishop of Metz had been called down the stairs of the Episcopal palace by German soldiers on the pretense that they wanted information. When the bishop appeared, he was at once put into a car and sent off to France without any opportunity to collect personal belongings.

Similar treatment was reported to have been inflicted on French prefects, mayors and priests in both Lorraine and Alsace.

$1000 bond as a result of his hearing before Mayor Cady. He is in County Jail in default of payment.

own benefit, and for the benefit of mankind.

Likes Five-Day Week

Discussing America's national defense activities and the prospect that eventually the slack of unemployment will be taken up, the famous Detroit automobile manufacturer announced he was for the continuance of the eight-hour day and the five-day week.

"We instituted the five-day week twenty-six years ago—and it works," Ford asserted. "We have no trouble with our employees. We pay them well over the union scale, and see to it that they are never overtired in mind or body."

(In 1914 Ford startled the world with his $5 minimum wage and his reduction of the working day from ten hours to eight. In 1922 he increased the minimum daily wage to $6, and in 1926 adopted a five-day week of forty hours. After the stock market crash in 1929, when President Hoover was urging industry not to cut wages, Ford increased every man on his payroll to a minimum of $7 per day. It was then, and still is, his belief that the influence of high wages and earned leisure stimulate production and contributes to prosperity.)

I talked with Mr. Ford in his private car, "Fair Lane," parked on a siding in Grand Central station. He had come to New York to receive the Holland Society's gold medal and diploma in recognition of his "Eminence in Scientific Manufacturing." Last year the medal went to Wendell L. Willkie.

Ford, now 77, and not looking a day over 65, sat sprawled out on a chair in the parlor car. From time to time, it was observed he unconsciously rubbed his hands across the side of his chair. He explained he was "exercising," even though sitting. He makes a hobby of keeping fit.

I reminded him that because of world conditions, the people of our country seemed rather apprehensive regarding the future.

"They shouldn't feel depressed," Ford replied. "I don't think this country will get into the war."

"One reason is the American Legion. They know too much about war. They are the best educated group in the world. They got their education in world affairs the hard way. And they are imparting their information to their friends, and to their sons and daughters, and are creating public sentiment that our people will get behind at a time of emergency."

"Ignorance—not fear—is the cause of war. Here we have two civilized nations, England and Germany, throwing bombs day and night on women and children. It is almost unbelievable; it is without sense or reason. It is destruction, and no good can come of it. The whole psychology of peoples must be changed.

"There is something very phony about this war. Who created it? And what for? If it weren't for the pure ignorance of the people, they would find out what is behind it."

gained new positions were described as responsible for the perilous position of the Italian wings.

In the center of the front other Greek columns penetrated still further into Albania north of the Pinus Mountains and some unofficial reports said a second Italian division had been virtually destroyed in this wild, desolate region. These advances indicated the Greeks may have blasted no less than 30,000 Italian troops out of action, including the Centaur division destroyed last week.

Territory Regained

The Greeks, continuing their general offensive along the entire 120-mile front, were said to have regained more than 20 miles of Greek territory in the only part of Greece where Italian invaders can still be found.

Debris Fills Streets

Here and there traffic detoured to avoid piles of debris or new craters yawning in the streets. Hundreds of curious pedestrians gathered around these gaping wounds, peering down at tangled, blasted gas and water mains.

Air raid precaution workers in several districts said the night was the worst they ever had experienced, as far as numbers of attacking planes were concerned.

In one area Nazi raiders passed overhead at the rate of one a minute—and kept this up for several hours.

Another district reported that it had counted the passage of 80 German planes in less than an hour.

All types of bombs fell on the city, including oil (fire) bombs and delayed action missiles. Because of the time bombs many areas were evacuated and roped off, including one busy road junction.

In at least one area a heavy death toll was feared where explosive bombs of the heaviest calibre demolished a rooming house and a block of apartments.

These blasts also demolished a number of private houses, which in this as in all other heavy attacks on London were the chief victims.

Two hospitals, one well-known residential club, the facade of a noted, popular-priced hotel, churches, pubs and one large store were among objectives bombed or hit by incendiaries.

Many persons had seemingly miraculous escapes from death or injury when one medium explosive bomb hit a sidewalk squarely in front of a store where several hundred persons had taken shelter.

Ten feet nearer, and it would have been a different story.

Everywhere there were acres of shattered glass and the odor of charred wood. But even more outstanding was the cheerfulness of the burned-out and bombed-out London people.

ROME—A large-scale enemy air raid on the Italian Adriatic port of Brindisi was announced by the Fascist high command today.

LONDON—British bombers attacked docks, oil plants and other objectives at the German port of Hamburg during the night. It was stated authoritatively today. Airdromes in German-occupied territory and coastal "invasion ports" also were reported bombed.

Mrs. Henry G. Abele, 53, of Yorktown Heights, New York, is a patient in Berger Hospital suffering from a fractured vertebra, received Friday afternoon when the automobile belonging to her son and driven by her husband turned over on its top. The accident happened just west of the Route 104 intersection with Route 22.

Mrs. Abele and her husband were returning to their home after attending a bottlers' convention in Cincinnati. Mr. Abele escaped injury.

FEDERAL OFFICE COMBATS STRIKE AT PLANE PLANT

gan yesterday morning when company officials refused to meet demands of 3,200 C.I.O. workers for a 65 cents-an-hour minimum wage in place of the present 50 cents.

The entire plant was ordered shutdown by Vultee heads and union picket lines were immediately placed around the plant in night and day shifts.

The strike was called by the Auto Workers' Union—the first in a major aircraft concern under the National Defense program. The shutdown threw 5,200 employees out of work and disrupted production of nearly $50,000,000 worth of training planes for the United States and a British order for military planes totaling $30,000,000.

Workmen reported at the plant for their regular shifts, but, instead of entering the locked buildings, joined the picket lines. No disorder was reported. Pickets bore such placards and banners as "They Shall Not Pass," "They Can't Beat Us" and "Keep Out, This Means You!"

Vultee officials charged the union was using the company as a "guinea pig" in a drive to force organization of other aircraft plants in southern California.

The strike call was issued by L. H. Michener, regional director of the union, when he said Vultee officials failed to file an answer to the union's wage increase demands at a prescribed time.

"The next step toward settlement is up to the company," Michener said.

Richard Millar, Vultee president, declared the company had offered to increase wages more than $1-100,000 a year, based on present employment.

SENATOR TAFT MEETS COLLEAGUE FOR TALK

CINCINNATI, Nov. 16—Ohio's senatorial team of Sen. Robert A. Taft (R), of Cincinnati, and Senator-elect Harold H. Burton (R), of Cleveland, today had mapped plans to work in close harmony when the latter takes office with the newly-elected senate in 1941.

Burton conferred with the Cincinnati senator yesterday in the Queen City on problems which must be ironed out before the first session in January.

The Cleveland mayor told newsmen he felt "no particular nervousness" about entering the senate.

Both Republican senators agreed there was no reason for the Republican party to abandon "its principles" because of President Roosevelt's election to a third term.
